Eva Havelik

During the Cold War my husband and I immigrated from what used to be named Czechoslovakia to the United States and were lucky enough to be able to settle in Reno, where, after my retirement from United Airlines, I enrolled to study art at the University of Nevada. After experimenting with various media I settled on watercolor and was happily painting for a number of years.

Lately I switched my attention to collage. I like to be able to use strong color and welcome the new freedom to experiment, to play with various pieces of paper and make as many changes in my pictures as I feel are necessary to achieve the results I am after.

I have participated in numerous shows, both group and solo, including the Reno/Tahoe Airport, the original River Gallery, the Clay/Nichols gallery and several others. One of my watercolor paintings has been used as cover picture for the Truckee Meadows Community College Winter/Spring 2006 catalogue. In February 2010 my collages were on display in the restaurant at the Nevada Museum of Art and several pieces were sold at the Museum Gift Shop. I have been invited to continue to show at the Gift Shop. For the last two years my collages were sold through the Blue Goose Gallery in Chester, California.
